

of Higher Education and Research
for Agriculture

March 8, 2007

Dr. Marco Antonio Bustamante García

Dear all,

Thank you for a wonderful week! We appreciate you giving your time and expertise to this event. We hope that you gained new insights and made new contacts while you were here. Most importantly, we hope that you will continue to work with one another and to share what you have discovered this week with colleagues in your own countries and institutions. The mission of transforming agricultural education is a daunting one, but we feel, also a necessary one.

Please remember that GCHERA is an organization that depends on the participation of each and every one of us. Without your continued interest and support it will be very difficult to forge a truly effective alliance for change.

We hope to have contact with you in the coming months and see all of you at GCHERA 2009 in Nairobi.

Thank you again for your participation.

Best wishes,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "J. Zogals." with a horizontal line underneath.